

A close-up, black and white photograph of a textured surface, possibly a book cover or endpaper. The image is divided horizontally by a dark, grainy band. Above this band is a lighter, textured area with a subtle pattern. In the top left corner, there is a small, rectangular, dark object with a lighter, possibly metallic or reflective, border, which appears to be a piece of tape or a label. The overall texture is rough and uneven, with various small specks and fibers visible.

—

